

HOME SCHOOL YOUR CHILDREN

You already provide 99% of your children's education because of the homework you and your children do. Teachers and administrators conceded long ago that homework makes the difference between success and failure in school.

Do you see how slick educators are? They take credit for the hard work you do for free. Even so, you allow incompetent and ungrateful teachers to boss you around like you're a child, and in this way, you teach your children to disrespect you.

Childcare and education are some of the many costs of having children. Parents seem to be engaged in a conspiracy with public financiers and professional educators to defraud taxpayers when they put the burden of the high cost of building schools and enriching school profiteers on people who get no benefits from schools - not even babysitting.

Please think. Please think ahead.

Don't have children until you can afford to stay home with them.
