

Please create and push through a document like the Emancipation Proclamation that will confirm the unalienable right of each birth mother to absolute custody of her children. Such a proclamation will eliminate the abusive court battles by which pathological fathers and other vicious people attack mothers; kidnap children under color of law; and steal the loyalty of children. These wars transfer wealth to lawyers that should go to children. The wars rob mothers of the rewards due them for their sacrifices and labor.

As you know, US legislators and courts use the ancient Common Laws of England as precedent and prototype. The ancient laws that serve as precursors of so-called fathers' rights are fatally flawed. They were established of-by-for English lords who wanted heirs to perpetuate their family titles and estates; and the laws treated women as breed cows for this purpose. The principles and process of ancient monarchy violate fundamental principles of modern democracy. The carry-over of English Common Law to the US democracy occurred without concern for ~ and the valid consent of ~ a totality or majority of people.

We must clarify that the absolute rights of mothers to their children from birth to maturity are among the unalienable rights that the 1776 Declaration of Independence mentions but doesn't list. Now that women have the franchise and are numerous, governments can enforce the truth ~ the 'Maker' gave women the tools that are necessary to perpetuate life; and the 'Maker' withheld these tools from men. (As a test of true manliness?) Real men reward women for nurturing life, like they reward all other specialists for important work.
